

We all have old products tucked away in the back of our cabinets or maybe covered in dust on the top shelf somewhere. They once served a useful purpose around the house, but now they need to be chunked.

The annual Household Hazardous Waste Day, sponsored by the Cleveland County Health Department, provides all residents of Cleveland County a way of properly disposing of these items. Simply bring them to the Cleveland County Public Health Center, located at 200 South Post Road in Shelby, and get rid of the stuff for good. Imagine all the shelf space you'll get back and it's the right thing to do to keep our county clean and beautiful!

Don't forget, Cleveland County also offers many recycling programs that are available year round. From household items, old electronics, unused medication, and everything in between, we're here to help you chunk it in the right place.
